s a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

their children." Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul cor-ruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which de-cumates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or one quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleause it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in

It is combined from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the lead of the second se disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as Eruptive and Skin Diseases, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Blains and Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheem. Yes, there each well-remembered form And smiling face appears— Distinctly can I see them now, Through the mist of many years.

I well remember, even now, How, through the woodland wild, My mother led me by the hand, A careless, happy child:
Twas long ago—yet methinks I see
The smiling meadows still, And the little rivulet singing by The cottage on the hill

I see my noble father there-I see him, as of yore,
As when, a little child, I ran
To meet him at the door:
When a quiet, calm, and loving light,
Shone in his eyes so mild,
As he proudly bent his manly form
To bless his well-loved child.

The little brook still sings along-Is singing merrily still; The cottage yet is standing there

Upon the cool green hill; And children still are playing there, Upon the velvet ground, But ah! how changed the scene to me-There are strangers all around

That father, he died long ago,
And I'm an orphan now!
His parting hand, long time ago,
Was laid upon my brow, And now the mourning cypress tree
Bends o'er his lowly tomb,
And the pure white rose is blooming there Amid the church-yard's gloom.

The last sad prayer is said— And he, who was ever kind and true, Is numbered with the dead! Our loving circle's broken now— Our circle-once so gay-And the wealth and pride of our happy home

Ah, yes! my father's laid to rest-

Has forever passed away ! Among my dreams of happier days White in distant lands I roam, The purest one will ever be Of my childhood's early home.

I loved it then—I cherish it now-And cherish I ever will, Till they lay one down in the old churchyard When my heart's wild throbbings are still. Frankfort, December 5th, 1860.

Without very painful sacrifices; without sudden and startling changes, it is entirely within the power of the Southern States gradually to withdraw from the North.

States gradually to withdraw from the North. States gradually to withdraw from the North, and to keep at home sums of almost fabulous value. By thus acting, we cease to foster our enemies; we abstain from strengthening the hand raised to smite us; we decline swelling Northern coffers with Southern treasure, and we retain amongst ourselves these resources which in a too generous spirity we have for years been sourced.

A policy such as this must eventually detrade, while it creates and consolidates South ern independence. It is evident that in proportion as our citizens cease to be dependent upon Northern industry for a multitude of the necessities and comforts of life, they will begin to look about them and enquire whether the same articles cannot be procur ed at home. Every dollar withdrawn from Northern commerce will be invested in Southern enterprise. When we give up pur-Southern enterprise. When we give up purchasing boots and shoes and hats and clothes, and machinery of all kinds and glass and the server of the same, and machinery of all kinds, and glass and chinaware, and ten thousand other products of Northern industry, we shall assuredly di-rect our attention to the expediency of man-ballot for each nominee separately (with the ufacturing them ourselves. It needs but a beginning, and the great laws of necessity exception of candidates for the Council) with the following result: beginning, and the great laws of necessity and demand will accomplish the rest. The South has hitherto been exceedingly loth to realize the truth of a fundamental axiom in political economy, viz: that a nation can never grow rich which exports all it produces, and imports all it needs. In other words, people who would wish to build up material prosperity, and its concomitants, greatness and power, must be almost entirely self-dependent and self-supporting. This is no arduous problem in a land like the South, teeming with all the elements of wealthwith cheap, continual and controllable la bor; with the raw material at hand, and hence exempt from all expense of transportation; with every possible means and appliance for the successful prosecution of manufacturing industry-and best of all, with a fervid patriotism and manly spirit of dignity and independence perpetually inviting her sons to cast off the trammels of Northern mercantile despotism.

An Easy Remedy for our Wrongs.

The philosophic spirit, says the Richmond Whig, in which the New Orleans Bee dis-Whig, in which the New Orleans Bee discusses the wrongs and considers the remedies of the South is as worthy of imitation as its suggestions are of being attentively weighed. It a late number, it adverts to the easy and complete remedy of non-intercourse, as one which may be used while the South remains in the Union, and which is perfectly compatible with the faithful observance of her constitutional obligations. There is no earthly reason why the South should continue to enrich her bitter and inveterate foes; why her merchants should annually import millions of dollars worth of Northern products; why Southern men should regularly pass the summer months at New York. This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most EXPERIENCED and SKILL-FUL NURSES in New England, and has been used with NEVER-FAILING SUCCESS in

THOUSANDS OF CASES.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but in-

HOSTETTF,R'S STOMACH BITTERS.

The proprietors and ranufacturers of HOS-TETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BIT TERS can appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore urknown. A few facts upon this point will speak more powerfully than volumes of bare assertion or blazoning puffery. The consumption of Hostetter's Stomach Bit-ters for the last year amounted to over a half-million bottles, and from its manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one million bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the rare medicinal properties contained in the prepara-tion, and the sanction of the most prominent physicians in those sections of the country where the article is best known, who not only recommend the Bitters to their patients, bu are ready at all times to give testimonials to its efficacy in all cases of stomachic derangements and the diseases resulting therefrom. This is not a temporary popularity, obtained by extraordinary efforts in the way of trumpeting the qualities of the Bitters, but a solid estimation of an invaluable medicine, which is destined to be as enduring as time itself. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have proved a Godsend to regions where fever and ague and various other bilious complaints have counted their victims by hundreds. To be able to state confidently that the "Bitters" are a certain cure for the Dyspepsia and like diseases, is to the proprietors a source of un-alloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, and imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy indispensable for the restoration of health. It operates upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to a condition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of nature. Elderly persons may use the Bitters daily as per directions on the bottle, and they will find in it a stimulant peculiarly adapted to comfort declining years, as it is pleasant to the palate, invigorating to the bowels, excellent as a tonic, and rejuvenating generally. We have the evidence of thousands of aged men and women who have experienced the benefit of using this preparation while suffering from stomach de-rangements and general debility; acting under the advice of physicians, they have abandoned all deleterious drugs and fairly tested the merits of this article. A few words to the gentler sex. There are certain periods when their cares are so harassing that many of them sink under the trial. The relation of mother and child is so absorbingly tender, that the mother, especially if she be young, is apt to forget her own health in her extreme anxiety for her infant. Should the period of maternity arrive during the summer season, the wear of body and mind is generally aggravated. Here then, is a necessity for a stimulant to recupe rate the energies of the system, and enable the mother to bear up under her exhausting trials and responsibilities. Nursing mothers generally prefer the Bitters to all other invigora tors that receive the endorsement of physi cians, because it is agreeable to the ta well as certain to give a permanent increase of bodily strength. All those persons, to whom we have particularly referred above, to wit: sufferers from fever and ague, caused by malaria, diarrhea, dysentery, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all diseases or derangements of the stomach superannuated invalids, persons of sedentary occupation, and nursing mothers, will consult their own physical welfare by giving to Hos-tetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters a trial.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label. Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, South Ame rica, and Germany.
